Preamble

The profession of landscape architecture, so named in 1867, was built on the principles of dedication to the public health, safety, and welfare and recognition and protection of the land and its resources. These principles form the foundation of the ILI Code of Professional Ethics. The Code contains important principles relating to clients, employers, employees and Members of the Institute.

The Code is arranged so that each Part contains Ethical Standards (ESn.n), essentially goals that Members should strive to meet. All of the Ethical Standards contain objective Rules (Rn.n). Violation of an Ethic Standard will be subject to consideration of the Professional Practice Committee which may incur censure. Violation of a rule may subject a Member to a formal complaint.

Therefore, the verb “should” is used in the Ethical Standards and “shall” is used in the Rules.

This Code applies to the professional activities of all professional, Corporate, Fellow, Graduate and Affiliate Members of the Irish Landscape Institute. The policies established by the ILI Council relative to environmental stewardship, quality of life, and professional affairs shall be the basis of action by Members.

Definition of Terms Used

For the purposes of this document the following definitions apply.

- Ethics: The moral standards governing the conduct of a member of a profession. (adapted from www.thefreedictionary.com/ethics)
- Professional: Behaviour and conduct that declares and expresses in practice expertise and knowledge to the highest standards, in the fields of landscape architecture, landscape design and/or landscape management.
- Principles and practices of sustainable development: derived from the Bruntland Commission's¹ imperative for intergenerational responsibility with regard to resource use. In landscape practice its application is exemplified through the Sustainable Sites Initiative,; "..dedicated to fostering a transformation in land development and management practices that will bring the essential importance of ecosystem services to the forefront. (see <http://www.sustainablesites.org/>). The Australian Landscape Principles of the Australian Institute of Landscape Architects² are also relevant to sustainable development:
 1. value our landscape
 2. protect , enhance, regenerate
 3. design with respect
 4. design for the future
 5. embrace responsive design
- State: used in the generic sense, that is, the particular state within which the member is or has conducted his/her professional practice; usually, but not always, the Republic of Ireland.

¹ “meet the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs” in 'Our Common Future' (1987) or Brundtland report prepared by the UN World Commission on Environment and Development. <http://www.un-documents.net/our-common-future.pdf>
