The Role of the BACCH Regional Co-ordinator

A BACCH regional co-ordinator exists for each of the old NHS Regions. This corresponds to the area covered by the RCPCH Regional Advisers and Council Representatives.

Job Description

1. To co-ordinate BACCH activities in the Region;
2. To cascade information on BACCH activities to members in their Region and promote members' tools;
3. To contribute to, and encourage regional members to participate in, consultation documents;
4. To liaise with the BACCH Office to ensure that contact details of regional membership is up to date;
5. To maximise membership of BACCH through the promotion of the organisation with students, trainees and other paediatricians in the region;
6. To organise at least one BACCH Regional meeting a year;
7. To attend biannual BACCH Council meetings;
8. To write a report on BACCH Activities in your region for BACCH News at least once a year.
9. To advise the RCPCH Regional Lead on education and training for community doctors.
The exact nature of this role varies from region to region – for example, it could involve being a member of the regional paediatric training committee, ensuring community paediatric representation on RITA assessments as some examples.
10. To advise the RCPCH Regional Lead on community job descriptions (exemplars available on the BACCH website)

It is estimated that the role requires 1 hour per week (equivalent to 0.25 PA)
