make a difference

Cranfield Trust volunteers provide pro bono management consultancy to support voluntary organisations. By sharing their business expertise, experience and time they add value to hundreds of charities every year, benefitting the lives of many individuals.

share your skills

Our volunteers provide an enormous amount of support to us and the charities we work with. Their skills are carefully matched with the needs of each charity, meaning we can offer free specialist, independent advice on everything from strategy and business development to marketing, governance and financial planning.

volunteer with us

All our management consultancy projects are individually tailored to fit around our volunteer consultants' work and personal commitments. If you would like to learn more about the difference you could make, please get in touch for an informal chat.

Last year our network of over 1,000 skilled business volunteers shared 15,840 hours of their time to support charities in their local community.
