

English-speaking cancer support hotline is launched in Majorca

● Majorca's Cancer Support Group for English speakers now has a 24 hour Helpline available where sufferers of the disease can find compassion and support at any time of the day or night.

"This isn't a medical cancer advisory line," group organiser Krista Hyer explained, "it's for people who can't relax because they're waiting for a diagnosis, or others who want someone to listen to them but feel unable to talk to their family and friends."

Today, November 1st, is when the group's monthly morning meeting takes place between 11am and 1pm at the new venue of Carrer Luna 3, Portals.

The house is the property of Calvia Council and they have kindly allowed the group to make it their permanent home. All are welcome to come and see if the group could help them, and sufferers are encouraged to come with a friend initially if they are nervous about walking into a roomful of strangers.

The numbers for the 24 hour Helpline are 638 038 819 and 971 879 489.
